About KEKS

KEKS was founded in 2005 as a network for the development of quality and competence in the field of youth work. Today KEKS consists of 43 local departments for youth work and about 250 youth centres in Sweden. In order to improve quality we have developed a unique model for quality assurance in which we also can set goals and measure to what extent they are achieved. Our ability to satisfy the social needs of young people is here combined with more solid economic figures to give the full picture of our work and how it can be improved. On the basis of this we work with the development of competence, methods and organisation among our member organisations in order to enhance the quality of youth work.

KEKS main business is to provide our members with development assistance in the form of capacity building and innovation. We organize every year 8-10 seminars on different themes for all staff. We have organized courses on teaching methods and current issues. As further support we also offer various forms of supervision. We are three staff working at KEKS office. Jonas Agdur is working chairman, Jenny Andersson is the manager and Sara Lesch is business developer.
